Position Details

The University of Washington's Department of Urban Design and Planning and the Runstad Center for Real Estate Studies are seeking applicants for a full-time Lecturer position for the MS in Real Estate commencing September 1, 2016. The position is a 100% FTE, 9-month fulltime teaching position. Salary is competitive. When hired through a competitive search, lecturers are eligible for renewable multi-year appointments and promotion, among other benefits available to full-time UW faculty members.

The position involves the teaching of two courses in each of three academic quarters – Autumn, Winter, Spring— with opportunities to teach additional courses if desired. The initial appointment will be for two years, with multi-year reappointments available, depending on performance.

Applicants should have primary teaching expertise in Real Estate Finance (with topics spanning from basic financial modeling in real estate, capital markets, project finance and advanced real estate finance) with the ability to teach Real Estate Development and possibly co-teach a Real Estate Development studio. Applicants should have demonstrated evidence of high-level proficiency in teaching at the graduate level.

Applicants must have at least a Master's degree in a relevant field. Work experience is required with teaching experience preferred although professional experience will be evaluated accordingly.

Applications, including a letter of interest, resume, 1-2 page statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation, should be emailed to Professor Sofia Dermisi at sdermisi@uw.edu by April 29th, 2016. Prof. Dermisi can also answer specific questions regarding the appointment and provide draft course outlines. Review of applicants will begin on May 2, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled.
